Sarah Drew
Sarah Drew, who is best recognized for her role as Dr. April Kepner on the long-running hit drama Grey's Anatomy, earned a bachelor's degree in drama from the University of Virginia in 2002. It was during the summer before her fourth year when the budding young actress earned her big break. While participating in a musical theater master class in New York City, Ms. Drew was spotted by a casting director and soon found herself in the title role of Romeo & Juliet at Princeton's renowned McCarter Theater. The New York Times raved, “Juliet, played by Sarah Drew, [was] petulant, giddy, incorrigibly girlish, willful and completely enchanting in a never-to-be-forgotten balcony scene. Ms. Drew's exploration of a teenager’s heart and her awakening to desire are defining, and from now on, indelible aspects of Juliet.” Shortly after graduating from UVA, Ms. Drew was cast in the Broadway production of Vincent in Brixton, which was soon followed by her first TV role, a two-year stint on the popular WB series, Everwood.

Ms. Drew had numerous guest-starring roles in several other series, including Mad Men, Glee, and Medium, and starred in the Hallmark Hall of Fame movie Front of the Class before joining the cast of ABC's award-winning series Grey's Anatomy, now in its 12th season. Ms. Drew has also appeared in feature films, including Radio opposite Cuba Gooding, Jr. and Ed Harris, American Fasttime opposite Gary Cole, and most recently, starred in the TriStar Pictures family comedy Moms' Night Out with Patricia Heaton and Sean Astin.

Ms. Drew and her husband, Peter (married in 2002 at the UVA Chapel), currently reside in Los Angeles with their children, Micah, 4, and Hannah, 1.
